Zeporah — One-Page Product Brief

Working website: zeporahcare.com
Launch: Metro Atlanta / Georgia-first MVP
Primary user: The Family Coordinator—the person responsible for organizing a loved one's affairs after death.

Product Vision

Zeporah is the trusted family workspace for what comes after a death. It helps the person carrying the practical burden move from confusion to a calm, coordinated plan—without forcing families to manage everything through group texts, paper folders, disconnected websites, and conflicting opinions.

The Problem

After a death, families face grief and bureaucracy at the same time. One person often becomes responsible for funeral or memorial coordination, documents, death certificates, family communication, bills, benefits, insurance, property, deadlines, and professional referrals. Existing help is fragmented: funeral homes, attorneys, insurers, government agencies, and family members each handle a separate piece, while no one coordinates the whole journey.

Product Promise

> Zeporah helps families know what to do next, decide who can help, and keep important responsibilities in one trusted place.

A user should leave the first session feeling: "I do not have to remember everything. I know what matters first. I can get help without giving everyone access to everything."

MVP: Georgia-First Core Experience

1. Create a private family case using only essential information: date/location of death, relationship, immediate priorities, asset categories, and optional faith/cultural preferences.
2. Receive a calm, phase-based roadmap for today, this week, this month, claims/benefits, estate-related resources, and first-year reminders.
3. Coordinate trusted helpers through one Family Coordinator, defined roles, task assignment, revocable/time-limited access, and a clear audit history.
4. Protect sensitive information with coordinator-only fields and per-document visibility controls.
5. Organize the work with a secure document area, shared expense ledger, decision log, family-update space, and practical reminders.

6. Find trustworthy resources through official Georgia/federal links, attorney-referral resources, and a curated local provider directory with plain disclosure of every paid listing, sponsorship, or referral relationship.

First Workflow: "I Need to Know What to Do First"

Goal: In under 10 minutes, a newly responsible family member creates a workspace, sees the next right actions, and can invite one trusted helper.

1. Welcome: "You do not have to do everything today. Let's start with what matters most."
2. Account: Create secure login with clear privacy reassurance.
3. Guided setup: Ask only what informs the plan—relationship, date/location of death, what has already happened, immediate concern, and optional cultural/faith preferences.
4. First Things First plan: Show no more than 3–5 priority cards for today and this week, such as confirming support, collecting known documents, requesting information about death certificates, deciding whether funeral support is needed, and inviting help.
5. Coordinator confirmation: Explain that the Family Coordinator organizes the workspace but Zeporah does not determine legal authority.
6. Invite helper: Let the coordinator assign a role—Financial, Logistics, Documents, Family Liaison, or View Only—with limited, revocable access.
7. Calm completion: "You have started. That is enough for today." Show one next action and a clear return path.

Non-Negotiables

- Zeporah provides organization, general information, and referrals—not legal, tax, financial, medical, or funeral-director advice.
- Do not collect Social Security numbers, bank details, full policy numbers, estate values, or unnecessary medical information during onboarding.
- Never determine legal authority, interpret legal documents, resolve family disputes, sell at-need funeral services, or take custody of family funds.
- Disclose every vendor fee or financial relationship inside the product before a family uses that provider.
- Use calm language, generous white space, and optional reminders; never use shame-based progress, countdowns, aggressive upsells, or alarming design.
- Family data is private; access is controlled by the coordinator, logged, and revocable.

Year 1 Proof of Success

- 60%+ of started cases complete onboarding.
- 40%+ of activated cases complete three priority actions within seven days.
- 50%+ invite at least one helper.
- 70%+ of surveyed families report reduced confusion.

- Zero serious privacy, security, undisclosed-fee, or legal-boundary incidents.
- 100–300 activated Georgia family cases, 20–60 paid family packages/support tests, 5–10 active referral partners, and one hospice design partner, pilot, letter of intent, or structured referral relationship.

> North Star: Zeporah succeeds when a grieving person can say, “I finally know what to do next—and I do not have to do it alone.”
